Dear Mr. Wechsler:

Thank you for your letter and enclosures dated June 28.

Ten years have lapsed since you first took on my injury case, and I do not have a clear idea of what your fee and expenses will total. Accordingly, I will appreciate your sending me a letter advice of your fee structure, plus the cumulative expenses that will be charged against the settlement. This will eliminate any confusion on what the process of settlement entails.

May I take this occasion to compliment Mr. Andrew Siegel on the astute and excellent manner in which he conducted the litigation. His attention to detail and "doing his homework," plus his engaging personality and professionalism were important factors in the settlement.

The fact that it was his first assignment in litigation makes it even more commendable. Certainly, if he had handled the arbitration portion of my case, the results would have been vastly better. You are to be congratulated on having him on your staff.

Sincerely,

Edward R. Roberts
